

HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATION AND ELECTRONIC HEALTH RECORDS OFFICE PROFESSIONALS

WHAT DO EHR OFFICE PROFESSIONALS DO?

Healthcare is changing. With healthcare reform, medical records must move to an electronic format, which has created an incredible need for administrative professionals trained on electronic health record (EHR) software. Electronic health records office professionals are the specialized administrative personnel increasingly in demand to keep the modern medical office running smoothly. Specific responsibilities vary from location to location, but may include:

- Creating and updating patients' electronic health records
- Managing the day-to-day operations of a medical facility
- Scheduling and coordinating appointments
- Verifying patient insurance
- Completing and submitting insurance claims
- Preparing correspondence between medical providers and their patients
- Providing quality customer service to patients

WHERE DO EHR OFFICE PROFESSIONALS WORK?

EHR office professionals work in a professional environment in a variety of healthcare facilities, and the demand for them will only increase as electronic health records become more standard. Positions can be found in doctors' offices, hospitals, outpatient clinics, and many other types of healthcare facilities.

HOW MUCH DO EHR OFFICE PROFESSIONALS EARN?

The U.S. Department of Labor groups EHR office professionals with other medical administrative assistants and reports that the middle 50% of professionals in this field earn between $26,060 and $37,740 a year. You may also be able to increase your earning potential by earning industry certifications such as the Certified Medical Administrative Assistant (CMAA) and Certified Electronic Health Records Specialist (CEHRS) credentials.

DOES HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATION NEED MORE EHR OFFICE PROFESSIONALS?

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that the need for EHR office professionals and other medical administrative assistants is growing much faster than demand in other fields.

- Thousands of new jobs – Over 210,000 new jobs are expected for EHR office professionals and other medical administrative assistants before 2020. Professionals with EHR expertise will be in the highest demand.
- Growing demand for healthcare services – Healthcare as a whole is expected to add over 3.5 million new jobs over the next few years, which is driven by an aging population that requires more care. This rapid industry expansion will greatly increase the need for administrative personnel like EHR office professionals.
- Shift to technology – Healthcare is changing, and government healthcare reform is pushing facilities to move to electronic health records, making EHR skills stand out in the job market.
